Rhetorical Exercises.

Composition, Elocution, and the Elements of Oratory receive careful attention. Select declamations and themes upon subjects previously assigned, are required at stated times during the first two years. There are private rehearsals preparatory to the declamations before the class. In the Junior Year, original declamations are substituted for select; while class debates, occurring each term, afford opportunities for practice in extemporaneous speaking. The results of previous study are called into requisition in the Senior Year, by the preparation of essays in criticism, original declamations, and orations.

Literary Societies.

The Eurosophian and Polymnian Societies hold weekly meetings for improvement in writing and speaking. They have their own libraries, which are increasing from year to year.

College Magazine.

The Bates Student is published monthly, under the direction of Editors and a Manager selected from the Junior Class. The first number was issued January, 1873.

Examinations.

All the classes will be subjected to written examinations at the close of each term.

Reading Room.

The College has a Reading Room, independent of the Library, supplied with a large number of the best daily and weekly newspapers, monthlies, and quarterlies. It is kept open during the whole day.

The Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus is increased yearly by a fund devoted to the purpose, and is sufficient for a full course of illustrative Lectures in Chemistry and Natural Philosophy.

The Cabinet of Minerals, Shells, and Fossils is arranged in cases convenient for study.

A large collection of New England birds has been added to the Department of Ornithology.

The Degree of Master of Arts will be conferred on Bachelors of three years' standing, who have been engaged in some literary occupation, and have sustained a good character, and who apply for the Degree to the College Registrar as early as the day before Commencement, advancing a fee of five dollars.

Theological School.

This is a department in the College, established by vote of the Corporation July 21, 1870. It occupies Nichols Hall, a four-story brick building, 45×100 feet, about a quarter of a mile from the College Buildings. It is in charge of a special Faculty appointed by the College Corporation.

Admission.

Candidates for admission are required to furnish testimonials of good standing in some Christian church, and to give evidence of their duty to prepare for the gospel ministry, certified by the church of which they are members respectively, or by some ordained minister.

Those who are not graduates from College, previous to entering upon the Regular Course of Study, must be prepared for examination in the Common English branches, Natural Philosophy, Physiology, Chemistry, Geology, Astronomy, and in the studies usually required for admission to a New England College.

The conditions for entering the English Course are satisfactory evidence, on examination by the Faculty, or by certificates from instructors, of familiarity with the English studies named above, together with Geography, Grammar, Arithmetic, Algebra, and History of the United States.

Students precluded from entering either Course of Study are admitted to the School for such a period as their circumstances will allow, and are permitted to pursue elective studies, under direction of the Faculty.

Expenses.

Each student is charged one dollar per year for catalogues, and one dollar per term for incidental expenses. There is no other charge for tuition, room, library, or any privilege of the school.

The students generally board in the Boarding Association for which there are ample accommodations in the basement of the Hall. They hire a matron, regulate their bill of fare, and assess the amount of cost on themselves. The expense varies; but is at present about $2.30 a week.

The members of the school needing aid receive from the Free Baptist Education Society about one hundred dollars annually.

Rooms.

A part of the rooms have been suitably furnished by the generosity of friends. The following is a list of the donors:

Mt. Vernon Church, Lowell, Mass.	Room 17
Wolfboro Quarterly Meeting, N. H.	" 19
Roger Williams Church, Providence, R. I.	" 20

Lectures.

Theological students are admitted free of charge to the Scientific and all other public lectures of the College.

Alethean.

This Society has a weekly meeting for discussions, essays, and other exercises.

Reading Room.

A well-furnished Reading Room supplies the students with opportunity for acquaintance with current political, literary, and religious matters.

Graduation.

Students that complete either of the Courses of study are entitled to receive Certificates of Graduation.

Terms and Vacations.

The Terms and Vacations are the same as those of the College.

ACADEMICAL AND THEOLOGICAL.

Libraries.

The number of volumes in the different libraries is as follows:

College Library (exclusive of Pamphlets),	7,273
Theological Library,	2,500
Society Libraries,	1,600
Total,	11,373

Gymnasium.

The Gymnasium has been sufficiently furnished to give the students opportunity for necessary exercise.

Site for the Observatory.

This comprises a space one hundred feet square, on the summit of David's Mountain. It is a donation to the College by Mrs. Archibald Wakefield and the late Mrs. John M. Frye. A street, twenty feet wide, is to be made to the Observatory from Mountain Avenue. The land for this street is also a donation from these ladies.

Phillips Missionary Society.

This Association is named in honor of the late Rev. Jeremiah Phillips, D.D., Missionary in India. Any student may become a member.

Funds.

Funds are needed for the endowment of Professorships and for the erection of a Library, an Observatory, and a building for the Latin School. They are needed also for the purchase of books and apparatus, and to assist meritorious students who are destitute of means.

The following are some of the grounds on which the College solicits aid of the friends and benefactors of education generally:

1. It has from the first been open to ladies, in this respect taking the lead of all the New England colleges.

2. Although it was founded with the specific purpose of promoting the education of the ministry of the Free Baptist denomination, it is eminently unsectarian and liberal in the spirit of its management.

3. It is a College in which the scale of expenses is low, and in which it is intended to be kept low, thereby enabling talented and worthy young men and women of limited means to acquire a liberal education.

Form of a Bequest.

"I give and bequeath to the President and Trustees of Bates College, a corporation existing in Lewiston, Maine, the sum of —— dollars, in trust, the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the income thereof appropriated under their direction for the purposes of the College."

Rhetorical Exercises.

Composition, Elocution, and the Elements of Oratory receive careful attention. Select declamations and themes upon subjects previously assigned, are required at stated times during the first two years. There are private rehearsals preparatory to the declamations before the class. In the Junior Year, original declamations are substituted for select; while class debates, occurring each term, afford opportunities for practice in extemporaneous speaking. The results of previous study are called into requisition in the Senior Year, by the preparation of essays in criticism, original declamations, and orations.

Literary Societies.

The Eurosophian and Polymnian Societies hold weekly meetings for improvement in writing and speaking. They have their own libraries, which are increasing from year to year.

College Magazine.

The Bates Student is published monthly under the direction of Editors and Managers selected from the Junior Class. The first number was issued January, 1873.

Examinations.

All the classes will be subjected to written examinations at the close of each term.

The Degree of Master of Arts will be conferred on Bachelors of three years' standing, who have been engaged in some literary occupation, and have sustained a good character, and who apply for the Degree to the College Registrar as early as the day before Commencement, advancing a fee of five dollars.

Theological School.

This is a department in the College, established by vote of the Corporation July 21, 1870. It occupies Nichols Hall, a four-story brick building, 45 × 100 feet, about a quarter of a mile from the College Buildings. It is in charge of a special Faculty appointed by the College Corporation.

Admission.

Candidates for admission are required to furnish testimonials of good standing in some Christian church, and to give evidence of their duty to prepare for the gospel ministry, certified by the church of which they are members respectively, or by some ordained minister.

Those who are not graduates from College, previous to entering upon the Regular Course of Study, must be prepared for examination in the Common English branches, Natural Philosophy, Physiology, Chemistry, Geology, Astronomy, and in the studies usually required for admission to a New England College.

The conditions for entering the English Course are satisfactory evidence, on examination by the Faculty, or by certificates from instructors, of familiarity with the English studies named above, together with Geography, Grammar, Arithmetic, Algebra, and History of the United States.

This comprises a space one hundred feet square, on the summit of David's Mountain. It is a donation to the College by Mrs. Archibald Wakefield and the late Mrs. John M. Frye. A street, fifteen feet wide, is to be made to the site from Mountain Avenue.

Funds.

Funds are needed for the endowment of Professorships and for the erection of a Library, an Observatory, and a building for the Latin School. They are needed also for the purchase of books and apparatus, and to assist meritorious students who are destitute of means.

The following are some of the grounds on which the College solicits aid of the friends and benefactors of education generally:

1. It has from the first been open to ladies, in this respect taking the lead of all the New England colleges.

2. Although it was founded with the specific purpose of promoting the education of the ministry of the Free Baptist denomination, it is eminently unsectarian and liberal in the spirit of its management.

3. It is a College in which the scale of expenses is low, and in which it is intended to be kept low, thereby enabling talented and worthy young men and women of limited means to acquire a liberal education.

Form of a Bequest.

"I give and bequeath to the President and Trustees of Bates College, a corporation existing in Lewiston, Maine, the sum of ——— dollars, in trust, the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the income thereof appropriated under their direction for the purposes of the College."

Location.

Lewiston is thirty-five miles east of Portland. It is on the east bank of the Androscoggin river, having a population of twenty thousand. Auburn, on the opposite bank, has a population of ten thousand.

Grounds.

The campus of the college consists of fifty acres, at a distance of about a mile from the business part of Lewiston and Auburn. It is hoped that its grading will be completed within a few years.

Buildings.

The college has five buildings—Hathorn Hall, Parker Hall, Nichols Hall, Gymnasium, and President's House.

A CATALOGUE IN ENGLISH.

In April last a circular was sent to all the graduates of the college, in which it was stated that a catalogue of the graduates would be published in English this fall, and in which also the request was made for answers to certain questions. It is to be regretted that not half of the graduates have replied to the circular. For this reason, therefore, the publication of the catalogue it was proposed to publish must be postponed.

Will those graduates who have not replied to the circular forward to the President answers to the following questions?

1. Your name?
2. Day of month and year of your birth?
3. Place of your birth, town, and State?
4. Name of your father, and the maiden name of your mother?
5. Where you fitted for college?
6. Your profession?
7. From what theological, law, medical, or other school are you a graduate; or in what school, or office, or with whom have you studied?
8. When married, and the name of your wife or husband?
9. The name of the father and mother of your wife or husband?
10. Date of birth, and names of your children?
11. Date of the death of your wife or husband?
12. Date of the death of children?
13. In what special undertaking have you been engaged?
14. State what work, in pamphlet or volume, you have published, sending a copy for the college library?
15. Where located each year, since graduating?
16. What offices have you filled or are now filling?
17. What degrees have you received from other institutions?
18. Your post-office address?
19. Give any additional information that really constitutes a part of your life?

There are private rehearsals preparatory to the declamations before the class. In the Junior Year, original declamations are substituted for select; while class debates, occurring each term, afford opportunities for practice in extemporaneous speaking. The results of previous study are called into requisition in the Senior Year, by the preparation of essays in criticism, orginal declamations, and orations.

The Eurosophian and Polymnian Societies hold weekly meetings for improvement in writing and speaking. They have their own libraries, which are increasing from year to year.

This comprises a space one hundred feet square, on the summit of David's Mountain. It is a donation to the College by Mrs. Archibald Wakefield and the late Mrs. John M. Frye. A street, fifteen feet wide, is to be made to the site from Mountain Avenue.

Funds.

Funds are needed for the endowment of Professorships and for the erection of a Library, an Observatory, and a building for the Latin School. They are needed also for the purchase of books and apparatus, and to assist meritorious students who are destitute of means.

The following are some of the grounds on which the College solicits aid of the friends and benefactors of education generally:

1. It has from the first been open to ladies, in this respect taking the lead of all the New England colleges.

2. Although it was founded with the specific purpose of promoting the education of the ministry of the Free Baptist denomination, it is eminently unsectarian and liberal in the spirit of its management.

3. It is a College in which the scale of expenses is low, and in which it is intended to be kept low, thereby enabling talented and worthy young men and women of limited means to acquire a liberal education.

Form of a Bequest.

"I give and bequeath to the President and Trustees of Bates College, a corporation existing in Lewiston, Maine, the sum of ——— dollars, in trust, the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the income thereof appropriated under their direction for the purposes of the College."

NICHOLS LATIN SCHOOL.

This Institution is located in the city of Lewiston, Maine, and is named in honor of the late Lyman Nichols, Esq., of Boston, one of the founders of the city. It is owned by the College, and its expenses are defrayed by funds drawn from the College Treasury. Its management is by a special Board of nine Directors appointed by the Corporation of the College.

The special object of the School is to prepare students of both sexes for the Freshman Class of Bates College, though students who do not contemplate a College Course are admitted to any of the classes which they have the qualification to enter.

The Course of Study comprises three years and as many classes—that is, the first year, or Junior Class; the second year, or Middle Class; and the third year, or Senior Class. The classes are so arranged that students can enter the School at any time during the year.

Rhetorical Exercises.

Composition, Elocution, and the Elements of Oratory receive careful attention. Select declamations and themes upon subjects previously assigned, are required at stated times during the first two years. There are private rehearsals preparatory to the declamations before the class. In the Junior Year, original declamations are substituted for select; while class debates, occurring each term, afford opportunities for practice in extemporaneous speaking. The results of previous study are called into requisition in the Senior Year, by the preparation of essays in criticism, original declamations, and orations.

Literary Societies.

The Eurosophian and Polymnian Societies hold weekly meetings for improvement in writing and speaking. They have their own libraries, which are increasing from year to year.

College Magazine.

The Bates Student is published monthly under the direction of Editors and Managers selected from the Junior Class. The first number was issued January, 1873.

Examinations.

All the classes will be subjected to written examinations at the close of each term.

Admission.

Candidates for admission are required to furnish testimonials of good standing in some Christian church, and to give evidence of their duty to prepare for the gospel ministry, certified by the church of which they are members respectively, or by some ordained minister.

Those who are not graduates from College, previous to entering upon the Regular Course of Study, must be prepared for examination in the Common English branches, Natural Philosophy, Physiology, Chemistry, Geology, Astronomy, and in the studies usually required for admission to a New England College.

The conditions for entering the English Course are satisfactory evidence, on examination by the Faculty, or by certificates from instructors, of familiarity with the English studies named above, together with Geography, Grammar, Arithmetic, Algebra, and History of the United States.

Expenses.

Each student is charged one dollar per year for catalogues, and one dollar per term for incidental expenses. There is no other charge for tuition, room, library, or any privilege of the school.

The students generally board in the Boarding Association, for which there are ample accommodations in the basement of the Hall. They hire a matron, regulate their bill of fare, and assess the amount of cost on themselves. The expense varies; but is at present about $2.30 a week.

The members of the school needing aid receive from the Free Baptist Education Society about one hundred dollars annually.

Gymnasium.

The Gymnasium has been sufficiently furnished to give the students opportunity for necessary exercise.

Site for the Observatory.

This comprises a space one hundred feet square, on the summit of David's Mountain. It is a donation to the College by Mrs. Archibald Wakefield and the late Mrs. John M. Frye. A street, fifteen feet wide, is to be made to the site from Mountain Avenue.

Funds.

Funds are needed for the endowment of Professorships and for the erection of a Library, an Observatory, and a building for the Latin School. They are needed also for the purchase of books and apparatus, and to assist meritorious students who are destitute of means.

The following are some of the grounds on which the College solicits aid of the friends and benefactors of education generally:

1. It has from the first been open to ladies, in this respect taking the lead of all the New England colleges.

2. Although it was founded with the specific purpose of promoting the education of the ministry of the Free Baptist denomination, it is eminently unsectarian and liberal in the spirit of its management.

3. It is a College in which the scale of expenses is low, and in which it is intended to be kept low, thereby enabling talented and worthy young men and women of limited means to acquire a liberal education.

Form of a Bequest.

"I give and bequeath to the President and Trustees of Bates College, a corporation existing in Lewiston, Maine, the sum of ——— dollars, in trust, the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the income thereof appropriated under their direction for the purposes of the College."

Location.

Lewiston is thirty-five miles east of Portland. It is on the east bank of the Androscoggin river, having a population of twenty thousand. Auburn, on the opposite bank, has a population of ten thousand.

Grounds.

The campus of the college consists of fifty acres, at a distance of about a mile from the business part of Lewiston and Auburn.

Buildings.

The College has five buildings—Hathorn Hall, Parker Hall, Nichols Hall, Gymnasium, and President's House.

There are private rehearsals preparatory to the declamations before the class. In the Junior Year, original declamations are substituted for select; while class debates, occurring each term afford opportunities for practice in extemporaneous speaking. The results of previous study are called into requisition in the Senior Year, by the preparation of essays in criticism, original declamations, and orations.

The Eurosophian and Polymnian Societies hold weekly meetings for improvement in writing and speaking. They have their own libraries, which are increasing from year to year.

The Gymnasium has been sufficiently furnished to give the students opportunity for necessary exercise.

Site for an Astronomical Observatory.

This comprises a space one hundred feet square on the summit of David Mountain. It is a donation to the College by Mrs. Archibald Wakefield and the late Mrs. John M. Frye. A street, fifteen feet wide, is to be made to the site from Mountain Avenue. The mountain is nearly four hundred feet above tide water. The sum of $30,000 has been subscribed by a gentleman in Boston for the erection of an Observatory on this site, to be paid when $50,000 shall be added to the pledges to the College as they stood October 1, 1887. The building will be eighty feet long and forty feet to the top of the dome. The telescope will be fifteen feet in length with an aperture of twelve inches.

Funds.

Funds are needed for the endowment of Professorships, the erection of a Library, and a building for the Latin School. They are needed also for the purchase of books and apparatus, and to assist meritorious students who are destitute of means.

The following are some of the grounds on which the College solicits aid of the friends and benefactors of education generally:

1. It has from the first been open to ladies, in this respect taking the lead of all the New England colleges.

2. Although it was founded with the specific purpose of promoting the education of the ministry of the Free Baptist denomination, it is eminently unsectarian and liberal in the spirit of its management.

3. It is a College in which the scale of expenses is low, and in which it is intended to be kept low, thereby enabling talented and worthy young men and women of limited means to acquire a liberal education.

Form of a Bequest.

"I give and bequeath to the President and Trustees of Bates College, a corporation existing in Lewiston, Maine, the sum of ——— dollars, in trust, the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the income thereof appropriated under their direction for the purposes of the College."

Location.

Lewiston is thirty-five miles east of Portland. It is on the east bank of the Androscoggin river, having a population of twenty thousand. Auburn on the opposite bank has a population of ten thousand.

Grounds.

The campus of the College consists of fifty acres, at a distance of about a mile from the business part of Lewiston and Auburn.

Buildings.

The College has five buildings—Hathorn Hall, Parker Hall, Nichols Hall, Gymnasium, and President's House.

There are private rehearsals preparatory to the declamations before the class. In the Junior Year, original declamations are substituted for select; while class debates, occurring each term, afford opportunities for practice in extemporaneous speaking. The results of previous study are called into requisition in the Senior Year, by the preparation of essays in criticism, original declamations, and orations.

The Eurosophian and Polymnian Societies hold weekly meetings for improvement in writing and speaking. They have their own libraries, which are increasing from year to year.

Expenses.

Each student is charged one dollar per year for catalogues, and one dollar per term for incidental expenses. There is no other charge for tuition, room, library, or any privilege of the school.

The students generally board in the Boarding Association, for which there are ample accommodations in the basement of the Hall. They hire a matron, regulate their bill of fare, and assess the amount of cost on themselves. The expense varies; but is at present about $2.30 a week.

The members of the school needing aid receive from the Free Baptist Education Society about seventy-five dollars annually.

Rooms.

A part of the rooms have been suitably furnished by the generosity of friends. The following is a list of the donors:

Lectures.

Divinity students are admitted free of charge to the Scientific and all other public lectures of the College.

Library.

Students have free access to the College Library, as well as to that of the School. The latter is open to them at all hours of the day.

Reading-Room.

A well-furnished Reading-Room supplies the students with opportunity for acquaintance with current political, literary, and religious matters.

Gymnasium.

Students take regular exercise in the Gymnasium under an instructor.

Graduation.

After three years of study students that complete either course are entitled to receive a diploma.

Terms and Vacations.

The Terms and Vacations are the same as those of the College.

ACADEMICAL AND THEOLOGICAL.

Libraries.

The number of volumes in the different libraries is as follows:

College Library (exclusive of Pamphlets),	9,526
Divinity School Library,	3,200
Society Libraries,	1,600
Total,	14,326

Gymnasium.

The Gymnasium has been entirely re-furnished and equipped with apparatus of the most approved pattern. Exercise in the Gymnasium is systematic and adapted to the special needs of each student. Instruction is to be given to each class four times a week throughout the year, and regular attendance is required as a part of the college work.

Astronomical Observatory.

The cut gives a front view of the proposed Observatory. It is to consist of a central tower some 28 feet square, surmounted by a dome 40 feet in height, which will contain the principal telescope. From this will extend wings 20 feet wide, east and west, comprising rooms for the other instruments, the library, and the director's room, thus giving a total length of some 80 to 100 feet.

The dome will probably be of steel, or wood covered with copper; and although quite heavy, by modern mechanical devices, it will be turned with a pressure of only a few pounds.

The principal instrument will be a large and powerful refracting telescope of 12-inch aperture and 15 feet in length, and capable of all the refinements of modern research.

In addition to this, there is to be a fine transit instrument with which true time can be determined from observations of the stars, and, inversely, for determining the positions of the stars, if necessary. Also a chronograph for recording celestial observations, a solar as well as sidereal clock for keeping sun time and star time respectively, a chronometer for use in observations, and a complete set of meteorological apparatus for investigating the changes in the atmosphere, as well as other subsidiary apparatus.

The thirty thousand dollars required for the erection and equipment of the Observatory are to be contributed by a Boston gentleman.

The site for the Observatory was a donation twenty-two years ago of a hundred feet square on Mount David, by Mrs. Archibald Wakefield and the late Mrs. John M. Frye. In order that the center of the Observatory may correspond with the center of the summit of the mountain, Mrs. Wakefield purposes to give an additional piece of land, making her gift about a half acre in all.

Hedge Chemical Laboratory.

Work on a new Chemical Laboratory has already commenced. The building will be completed early in the summer, and be open to the College classes at the beginning of next fall term.

The Laboratory is named in honor of the late Isaiah H. Hedge, M.D., of Waukon, Iowa, who generously furnished the means for the erection of the building. Dr. Hedge was a native of Woolwich, Me.

Funds.

Funds are needed for the endowment of Professorships, Scholarships, and the Library; for the erection of buildings for the Library and the Divinity School; also for the erection of a Hall for the young ladies of the college, and for apparatus.

The following are some of the grounds on which the College solicits aid of the friends and benefactors of education generally:

1. It has from the first been open to ladies, in this respect taking the lead of all the New England colleges.

2. Although it was founded with the specific purpose of promoting the education of the ministry of the Free Baptist denomination, it is eminently unsectarian and liberal in the spirit of its management.

3. It is a College in which the scale of expenses is low, and in which it is intended to be kept low, thereby enabling talented and worthy young men and women of limited means to acquire a liberal education.

Form of a Bequest.

"I give and bequeath to the President and Trustees of Bates College, a corporation existing in Lewiston, Maine, the sum of ——— dollars, in trust, the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the income thereof appropriated under their direction for the puposes of the College."

Location.

Lewiston is thirty-five miles east of Portland. It is on the east bank of the Androscoggin river, having a population of twenty thousand. Auburn on the opposite bank has a population of ten thousand.

Grounds.

The campus of the College consists of fifty acres, at a distance of about a mile from the business part of Lewiston and Auburn.

Buildings.

The College has five buildings—Hathorn Hall, Parker Hall, Nichols Hall, Gymnasium, and President's House.

There are private rehearsals preparatory to the declamations before the class. In the Junior Year, original declamations are substituted for select; while class debates, occurring each team, afford opportunities for practice in extemporaneous speaking. The results of previous study are called into requisition in the Senior Year, by the preparation of essays in criticism, original declamations, and orations.

Terms and Vacations.

The Terms and Vacations are the same as those of the College.

ACADEMICAL AND THEOLOGICAL.

Libraries.

The number of volumes in the different libraries is as follows:

College Library (exclusive of Pamphlets),	9,929
Divinity School Library,	3,200
Society Libraries,	1,600
Total,	14,729

Gymnasium.

The Gymnasium has been entirely refurnished and equipped with apparatus of the most approved pattern. Exercise in the Gymnasium is systematic. Instruction is to be given to each class four times a week, and regular attendance is required as a part of the college work.

Astronomical Observatory.

The Observatory is to consist of a central tower some 28 feet square, surmounted by a dome 40 feet in height, which will contain the principal telescope. From this will extend wings 20 feet wide, east and west, comprising rooms for the other instruments, the library, and the director's room, thus giving a total length of some 80 to 100 feet.

The dome will probably be of steel, or wood covered with copper; and although quite heavy, by modern mechanical devices, it will be turned with a pressure of only a few pounds.

The principal instrument will be a large and powerful refracting telescope of 12-inch aperture and 15 feet in length, and capable of all the refinements of modern research.

In addition to this, there is to be a fine transit instrument with which true time can be determined from observations of the stars, and, inversely, for determining the positions of the stars, if necessary. Also a chronograph for recording celestial observations, a solar as well as sidereal clock for keeping sun time and star time respectively, a chronometer for use in observations, and a complete set of meteorological apparatus for investigating the changes in the atmosphere, as well as other subsidiary apparatus.

The thirty thousand dollars required for the erection and equipment of the Observatory are to be contributed by a Boston gentleman.

The site for the Observatory was a donation twenty-three years ago of a hundred feet square on Mount David, by Mrs. Archibald Wakefield and the late Mrs. John M. Frye. In order that the center of the Observatory may correspond with the center of the summit of the mountain, Mrs. Wakefield purposes to give an additional piece of land, making her gift about a half acre in all.

Hedge Chemical Laboratory.

The new Chemical Laboratory is nearly completed, and will be open to the college classes next April.

The Laboratory is named in honor of the late Isaiah H. Hedge, M.D., of Waukon, Iowa, who generously furnished the means for the erection of the building. Dr. Hedge was a native of Woolwich, Me.

Funds.

Funds are needed for the endowment of Professorships, Scholarships, and the Library; for the erection of buildings for the Library and the Divinity School; also for the erection of a Hall for the young ladies of the College, and for apparatus.

The following are some of the grounds on which the College solicits aid of the friends and benefactors of education generally:

1. It has from the first been open to ladies, in this respect taking the lead of all the New England colleges.

2. Although it was founded with the specific purpose of promoting the education of the ministry of the Free Baptist denomination, it is eminently unsectarian and liberal in the spirit of its management.

3. It is a College in which the scale of expenses is low, and in which it is intended to be kept low, thereby enabling talented and worthy young men and women of limited means to acquire a liberal education.

Form of a Bequest.

"I give and bequeath to the President and Trustees of Bates College, a corporation existing in Lewiston, Maine, the sum of ——— dollars, in trust, the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the income thereof appropriated under their direction for the purposes of the College."

Location.

Lewiston is thirty-five miles east of Portland. It is on the east bank of the Androscoggin River, having a population of twenty thousand. Auburn, on the opposite bank, has a population of ten thousand.

Grounds.

The campus of the College consists of fifty acres, at a distance of about a mile from the business part of Lewiston and Auburn.

Buildings.

The College has five buildings—Hathorn Hall, Parker Hall, Nichols Hall, Gymnasium, and President's House.
